

Golden Fever

A Rollicking Romp with Everyone's Buddy,
the Golden Retriever

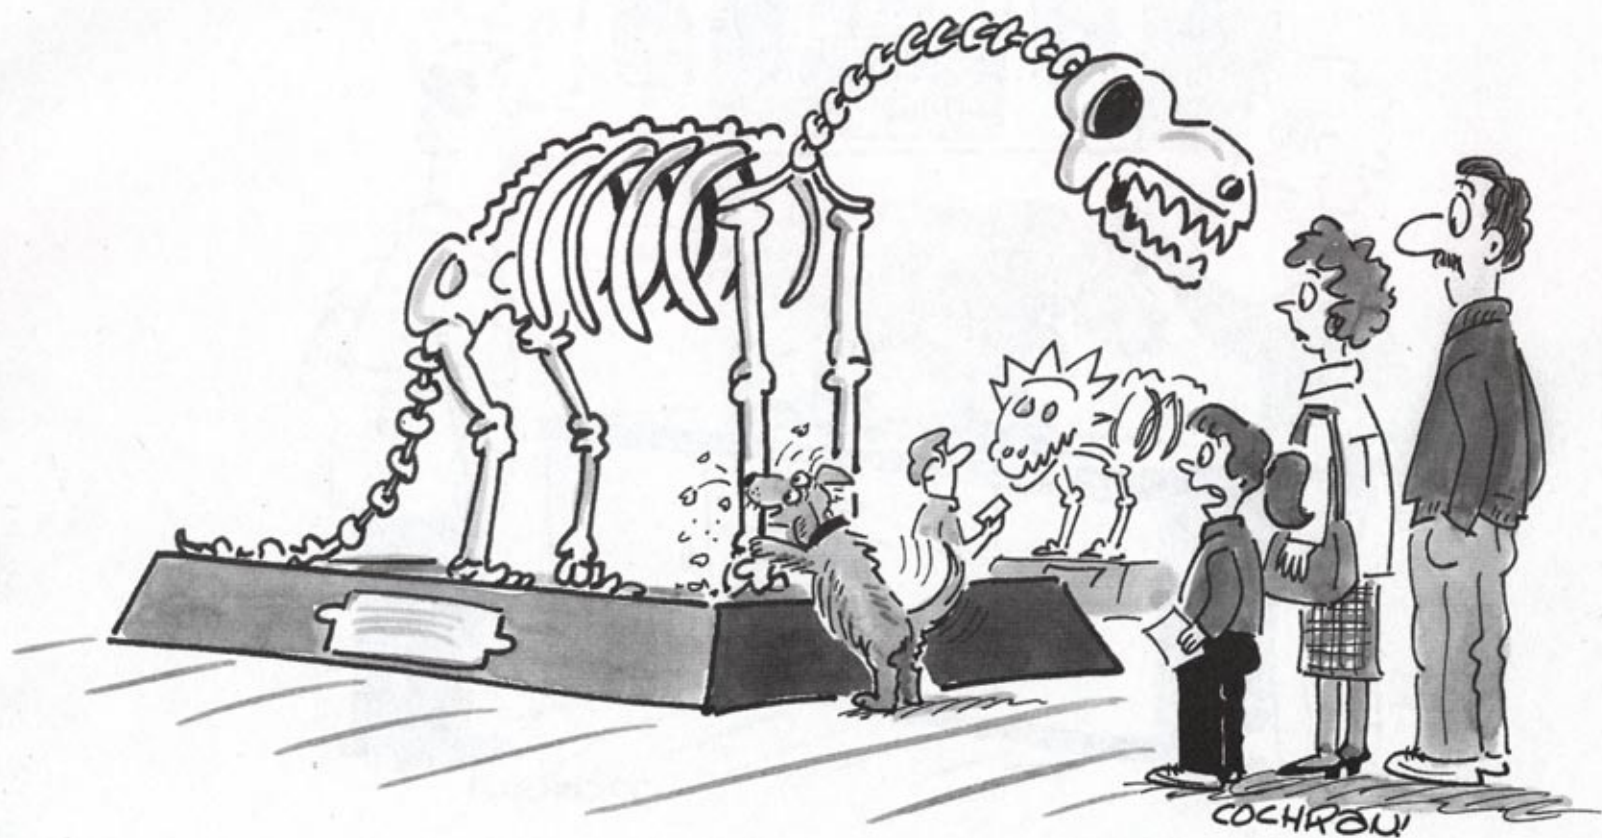

by Bruce Cochran

"OF COURSE SHE DOESN'T WANT IN YET.
SHE'S WAITING FOR US TO SIT DOWN."

COCHRAN!

"BUFFY! NO!!"

"HE SWALLOWED HIS SQUEAKY TOY."

"HOW DOES HE MAKE HIS EARS GET LONGER WHEN HE'S SULKING?"

" HE'S GLAD TO SEE YOU. "

COCHRON!

"IS 'BOW WOW' ONE WORD OR TWO?"

" IT'S CALLED 'GOLDEN RETRIEVER FLUSHING A PHEASANT.' "

Cheerful, friendly, self-assured, and just plain loveable — these are the classic characteristics of golden retrievers. What golden owners won't tell you is that these lovely dogs can also display hoodwinking deceit, annoying persistence, blind jealousy, selfishness, flatulence and indolence. Of course, it's because of these exasperating traits, if not in spite of them, that goldens are so darn endearing. All golden owners will recognize themselves and their dogs in Bruce Cochran's Golden Fever.
